WONMUNNA POLYMETALLIC PROJECT (100% Talisman)

Iron Ore

Drill evaluation of Marra Mamba Iron Formation iron mineralisation at the Northern Marra Mamba (NMM) prospect commenced in the preceding quarter continued in the December, 2007 Quarter. Assay results of the September, 2007 Quarter were also received with results to 36m @ 58.84% iron (including 20m @ 61.41% iron), confirming the strong potential of the project area to host significant iron deposits.

Drilling of Channel Iron Deposits (CID), generally directly overlying mineralised Marra Mamba, indicated that the CID in this locality was generally thin and of low-grade with a best intercept of 4m @ 55.95% iron.

Clearly, the best short to medium term potential for definition of a commercial iron ore deposit(s) is in the Marra Mamba Iron Formation, and it is this potential upon which the Company will be focussing.

Results received to date are for the first 48 drillholes (1,745m) in 4 incomplete drill traverses along existing tracks (Figure 1). As a result of this 'opportunistic' siting of drillholes, this initial drilling is arbitrary and very wide spaced, and was intended only to confirm the presence and nature of iron ore mineralisation.

During the quarter an additional 36 drillholes (1681m) were completed as part of the reconnaissance drilling program. Assay results for these drillholes have not yet been received.

Reconnaissance drilling is ongoing with completion of this phase of exploration expected in early February, 2007. This will be followed up immediately by commencement of resource drilling at NMM, in company with commencement of reconnaissance drilling of other iron ore targets within the Wonmunna project area.

Copper-Zinc-Gold-Silver

Assay of 1m drill intervals from reconnaissance drillholes of several soil geochemical anomalies completed in the previous quarter has defined significant sulphide copper mineralisation, albeit that 4m assay results reported in the previous quarter had indicated that, whilst significant, assay results were generally of low-grade. The 1m assays returned results to 1m @ 1.63% copper in sulphidic black shale. These results are considered to be very significant and possibly indicative of the existence of copper-(zinc-gold-silver) massive sulphides in the project area.

TRILLBAR POLYMETALLIC PROJECT (80% Talisman)Iron Ore

Reconnaissance exploration of the Trillbar project area has discovered a massive hematite – mineralised iron formation, the Northern Iron Formation (NIF) over a strike length of approximately 350m and up to 40 thick, with outcrop samples averaging 68.12% iron. Both the east and west strike extensions are obscured by thin cover and it is believed that the mineralisation may be substantially more extensive than indicated in outcrop.

This discovery is very significant and offers excellent potential for the definition of a significant, high-grade iron resource.

The Seabrook Iron Formation (SIF) of approximately 9km strike extent returned predominantly low iron grades (<40% iron), although with spot highs to 59.66% iron. There is clearly good potential for the definition of significant iron deposits associated with this extensive iron formation.

Gold

No evaluation of the gold potential of this project was completed during the Quarter.

YAMADA IRON PROJECT

Reconnaissance prospecting of limited outcrops of Frere Iron formation has returned outcrop samples to 61.77% iron.

WANDANYA IRON PROJECT

Reconnaissance prospecting of this new project area has located 5 small outcrops of massive hematite mineralisation, presumed to be coincident with a projected northerly extension of the Marra Mamba Iron Formation. Assay results for collected outcrop samples are expected by end of February, 2008.

ANTICLINE POLYMETALLIC PROJECT (100% Talisman)

No exploration activities completed during the Quarter.

TOM PRICE POLYMETALLIC PROJECT (100% Talisman)

No exploration activities completed during the Quarter.

MOUNT JAMES GOLD PROJECT

No exploration activities completed during the Quarter.

BUSTLER WELL GOLD PROJECT

No exploration activities completed during the Quarter.

EAST KIMBERLEY NICKEL PROJECT (100% Talisman)

Stream sediment geochemistry was completed over part of the project area during the quarter. Results from this sampling returned anomalous nickel, copper, zinc, gold, and silver in several locations. A single sample of quartz veining assayed 5% copper and 694.5g/t silver.

YILGALONG GOLD / BASE METALS PROJECT (100% Talisman)

Assay results were received for a reconnaissance stream sediment sampling survey completed over part of the area during the previous Quarter. These results have indicated strong gold and copper anomalism at several areas in the tenement. Follow up soil geochemistry has been completed over several of these areas with results expected in late January, 2008.
